OF RED CROSS NEEDS

Also That Mothers' Day and Mothers' Week Suggest Liberal Contributions.

YOUR MOTHER:
Do you remember the "works of mercy" she taught you?
Feed the hungry.
Give drink to the thirsty.
Clothe the naked.
Nurse the sick.
Comfort the cheerless.
These are the works of the Red Cross.
Would you follow her precepts?

RED CROSS NOTES.

The District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross celebrated the dedication of the new national headquarters yesterday with the announcement that the war service fund raised in Washington had reached $162,000. During the day more than $5,000 was received. Several members of the Rotary Club sent in large collections.

Chaperons for the dance under the auspices of the Spanish War Auxiliary, No. 1, to the D. C. Chapter of the Red Cross, in the Cairo Wednesday night are Mrs. William McNeil, Mrs. Herman Pecolin and Mrs. E. M. McNeil. The committee in charge of the affair, assisted by woman yeomen of the navy, are: Committee Mrs. K. Capron, Mrs. D. V. Chalmers, Mrs. Lee Harris, Mrs. E. M. Mix and Mrs. M. Maynard. Yeomen (women), L. S. N. McNeil, Miss E. Callahan, Miss C. Davis, Miss M. Brown, Miss V. Ithre, Miss G. Hamilton and Mrs. B. Williams.

A knitting class will be organized by Mrs. G. Wallace W. Hanger, vice president general of the D. A. R. from the District of Columbia, assisted by Mrs. G. M. Brumbaugh, state recent of the District, for all daughters who wish to learn to knit the standardized knitted garments for war relief work. No purchase of needles. Those wishing to join the class should notify Miss Strider, 1450 Rhode Island avenue. The class will meet at the Y. W. C. A. rooms, 14th and G streets, Wednesday mornings from 10 to 12:30 o'clock and Friday evenings from 7 to 9:30 o'clock.

Swearing in of recruits for the Washington Ambulance Company starts tomorrow in the hall of the Professional Chauffeurs' Association, 1107 14th street, which is enrollment headquarters. It will occupy at least a week, after which the unit will be taken into training camp at Fort Washington. Dr. Ryan Devereux, captain, expects that this unit will go into service in France within two months. Equipment is being hurried so that there may be no delay in getting down to real work of training.

Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, daughter of the President and wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, inspected the work being done at the District headquarters of the Red Cross yesterday afternoon, and said that she would do active work herself for the Red Cross.

Miss Cornelia Hancock of Atlantic City, a past national president of the Civil War Army Nurses, is here as an

STATE MILITIA STATUS
IN ARMY IS UNCERTAIN

Entirely New Element of National Forces May Be Evolved Out of Discussion.

The exact place the National Guard is to fill in the national army is still a matter of discussion in the War Department. Under the recent announcement that the states, if they so desire, may raise additional regiments or units up to a total National Guard force, including national militia, of 800 men for each representative of senators and congressmen, it is not even possible as yet to forecast the strength of the organization when it is drafted into the United States Army.

It is possible that an entirely new element of the national forces will be evolved out of the discussion. The suggestion has been put forward that only twelve full divisions of the guard be organized into tactical units for purely military purposes. That would leave many regiments unattached to divisional organizations. A large force is necessary to carry on the police work now being done by those guard organizations which will be needed soon in the training camps.

One proposal is that these additional regiments, or others substituted for them, be definitely assigned for police duty. In that event the states might be encouraged to recruit police regiments among older men, the age limit for first enlistment being put up to 45 years. The plan would furnish an opportunity for the older men to serve their country without being called on to undergo all the hardships of campaigning, and it is believed there are many who would willingly undertake the duty, releasing younger men for work at the front.

Similar to German Landsturm. The force of older men would be similar to the German landsturm and the French territorials, and would relieve the command of the necessity of diverting part of their forces to police work. The police force could be organized directly under the provost marshal general and touch the War Department only in the line of duty.

Under the department's plan there would be twelve divisions of state troops with a number of extra regiments. The total strength, exclusive

ADDITIONAL PRIZE OFFERED.

$20,000 for Best Method of Character Education in Schools.

A prize of $20,000 for the best method of character education in public schools will be offered as a supplement to the $5,000 prize for the best children's code of morals, already under competition under the auspices of the National Institute for Moral Instruction.

The money has been given by a business man whose name will be disclosed. The competition will begin with Washington's birthday, 1918, and continue for a year. Each state will be asked to organize a team of nine character education collaborators to compete for the prize.

Building of character in the schooling age, the institution believes, makes for the upbuilding of the nation.

Landing of English Characterized as Founding of World Democracy.

Praise of Jamestown, Va., as the cradle of the democracy now spreading over the world, was voiced by Daniel Smith Gordon at the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the first English colony at Jamestown, held at the residence of Miss Webster, 2125 R street northwest last night.

The meeting was the local branch of the National Society, Sons of the Colonial Cavaliers. The New York society is to be the guest of honor in that city tonight, today being the actual anniversary of the landing at Jamestown.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TO PROBE FLAG PRICES

Inquiry to Determine Reason for Sharp Rise in National Colors Since War Declaration.

The sharp advance in the price of American flags is to be investigated by the Department of Justice, following statements by Byron H. Newton, assistant secretary of the Treasury, that prices of flags have increased two-fold and in some instances more, since the United States entered the war. The investigation will ascertain whether the advance is the result of price fixing in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Acts which are regarded as desecration of the flag are constantly being brought to the attention of the Department of Justice. Especially is this so of its use for advertising purposes. Lack of federal legislation ties the hands of the government law officer.

Many states have enacted laws regulating the use of the flag. The only federal law on the subject applies only to the District of Columbia, and was enacted February 6, last. It makes punishable the improper use of the national colors in the District of Columbia.

NINE-HUNDRED-MILE HIKE
BY 72-YEAR-OLD VETERAN

After traveling nearly 900 miles on foot, Arthur Pope Murray, seventy-two-year-old Confederate veteran, has arrived in Washington from Atlanta, Ga., hale and hearty, to attend the Confederate reunion. The route he took is that of the railroad, but on account of high water this change in his course was necessary.

En route to this city Mr. Murray wore a Confederate Cross of Honor, and everywhere he said the hospitality of the homes in the various sections through which he passed were open to him as soon as his decoration could be observed.

Mr. Murray started at Atlanta March 16 and arrived in Washington May 12, shortly thereafter going to Alexandria, Va., where he enlisted at the outbreak of the civil war and where he is now visiting relatives.

A member of Kemper's Battery of the 1st Virginia Cavalry, Mr. Murray served in the Confederate army from the first battle of Bull Run until after Gen. Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Mr. Murray plans to reside in Alexandria after the Confederate reunion here.
